The Folk Process

by Ruth Lipman

Helen Levin invites all of her Pinewoods friends to the following exhibit: "Helen Levin and Golan Levin: The Gesture in Paint and Software, An Intergenerational Exhibition" to be held at The Staten Island Museum, 75 Stuyvesant Place from July 7, 2011 through January 8, 2012. Helen writes, "come and enjoy the colorful paintings by longtime artist, Helen Levin, and the interactive, hands-on art experiences afforded by cutting-edge software developed by her son Golan Levin, a prominent media artist whose works have been featured at the Whitney Biennial, Ars Electronica festivals, on National Public Radio (an interview on "All Things Considered"), and in the New York Times. Helen was a 2008 recipient of the Chenven Foundation award in Painting, and two NYC DCA grants during the 90s."

On a sad note, Margaret Murray informs us that Jack Hardy died of cancer in March. Margaret writes, "I've had the pleasure of knowing Jack for nearly 30 years. An extremely talented singer-songwriter, Jack was the founder of Fast Folk - a musical magazine/LP (and later CD) that began in 1982. Fast Folk presented the first recordings of artists such as Suzanne Vega, Christine Lavin, John Gorka, Shawn Colvin, Lyle Lovett and so many others. Going back to the 1970's, Jack's Greenwich Village apartment was the scene of a weekly pasta dinner and songwriters gathering. The admission required the guest bring a few dollars or something for the dinner, AND a brand new song. The encouragement offered at those weekly sessions created a community that continues the songwriting tradition and has become the cornerstone of our folk community" (excerpted from Hurdy Gurdy News).
